

Jesus heals ten men

Today's story reminds us of two things – how amazing Jesus is and that we should always remember to say 'thank you'

Ten men were very sad. They were sad, because they were sick. They were so sick, they had to live away from their families. They had to live away from their friends.

One day the ten men found out that Jesus was coming their way. They decided to go meet him. When they saw him, they called, "Jesus, Jesus!" Jesus looked. And he said, "Go to the priest. Let him take a look at you."

Now the priest was the one who could tell them if they were well. He could tell them if they could live with their families again. So they started on their way to see the priest.

While the men were walking, they began to notice something. They were feeling better. They were looking better. In fact, they were all well!

They were so excited. They hurried on to see the priest. All but one. One man remembered something. He remembered to go back to Jesus and say thank you.
